

To all whistleblowers worldwide!

All these reflections, exchanges and sharing, as well as all the news concerning unidentified aerial phenomena (UAP) in the world of politics, geopolitics, ufology, the media and the general public, lead me once again to a distressing observation: the culpable responsibility of all those involved in the international ufology scene.

This week, I had to go to the emergency room at Cannes hospital. I was confronted with the human condition and misery in all its forms. During those long hours of waiting, my thoughts turned to those responsible and guilty actors we now call “whistle-blowers”.

Jacques Vallée and company” blow hot and cold in the international ufology community, on the media scene, with politicians and the general public. For decades now, these same people and newcomers (Elizondo, Grusch, Mellon, various French and international initiatives, commissions of inquiry, lecturers, writers past and present) have been constantly making specific and contradictory allegations. They flip-flop with every change of wind, and are omnipresent in the media, colloquia, congresses, conferences and on the web, not to factually lay on the table the crucial element that would bring down the house of cards, but to stroke their egos.

The same people who, in private, tell you how true the dossier is, how exogenous civilizations exist, that they are present on Earth, that they know their origins, their modes of travel, their technologies, their sciences, their objectives and their interactions with various players in civil, military and commercial society, in public, either say the opposite, or deflect attention, or brandish the excuse of national security to brush it off.

I'm not saying that the truth about direct interaction between terrestrial human civilization and one or more exogenous civilizations would solve all our problems. No, far from it, but it could help us in certain fields, notably health, to improve the existence of sick people and other human conditions.

To conceal from the eyes of the world information concerning the existence, presence, activity and exopolitical interaction of one or more exogenous civilizations on Earth is for me an act of betrayal towards the peoples of Earth, towards the whole of human civilization. In my opinion, Jacques Vallée and his colleagues on the international ufology scene are all guilty of and responsible for a century of lies and shameful disinformation about all forms of life on Earth.

Enough is enough!

Don't give these people any more credit, don't invite them to your symposia, congresses, initiatives and other conferences when they have nothing factual to say, except to stroke their pretentious human egos once again. Human civilization is suffering everywhere on the face of the earth. If we are to learn from each other, human and exogenous, through our experiences, our experiments, our discoveries, our paths taken, it was yesterday that we should have done so, and it's now that we must.

We must roll up our sleeves and do our best to bend the forces opposing global disclosure of the existence, presence, activity and exopolitical interaction of one or more exogenous civilizations on Earth.

We must no longer turn to these pseudo-warners who have nothing to say or to give factual information to change the civilizational paradigm on the surface of the Earth.

A true whistle-blower arrives with evidence in hand, and gets involved to the point of potentially risking his or her life.

If it's the other way around, then Jacques Vallée and his colleagues in the international ufology media sphere have only one directive for you: shut up!
